QUALIFICATIONS & AWARDS

B.Com.(Hons.1) in Accounting and Financial Management, U.N.S.W., Sydney, 1973

M.Com.(Hons.) in Accounting, Finance and Systems, U.N.S.W., Sydney, 1976
'The Implementation of Functional System Design and Development Techniques in a COBOL Environment'

PhD, Australian National University, Canberra, 1997
'Data Surveillance: Theory, Practice & Policy'
at <http://www.rogerclarke.com/DV/PhD.html>

Fellow, Australian Computer Society (FACS), since 1985

ANCCAC Prize for the best article in the Australian Computer Journal, 1982

IFIP (International Federation for Information Processing) Outstanding Service Award, 1992

Computerworld Australia Fellow, 1992

Named by Information Age magazine in the mid-1990s as one of the 50 most influential people in Information Technology & Telecommunications in Australia

ISWorld Award (for the ISWorld Country Pages Department), 1999

Privacy Medal, awarded by the Australian Privacy Commissioner, 2009

KEY ACADEMIC AFFILIATIONS

Visiting Professorships:

University of Bern, Switzerland, 1987-88 (IWI – Prof. Joachim Griese)

University of Linz, Austria, 1992 (IWI – Prof. Gustav Pomberger)

University of Hong Kong, 2002-09 (CSIS – Prof. Francis Lau)

University of N.S.W., 2003- (CLPC – Prof. Graham Greenleaf)

Australian National University, 2005- (CS – Prof. Tom Gedeon)

Visiting Fellow, Australian National University, Dept of Computer Science 1995-2005

Visiting Scholar, European Business School, Rheingau, 2002-03 and

University of Koblenz-Landau Institute for Information Systems Research, 2007

ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES

Lecturing (1975-76, 1983) and Tutoring (1973-76), University of N.S.W. and Uni. of Sydney
 Reader in Information Systems, Department of Commerce, A.N.U., 1984-95
 Subsequently, frequent guest lectures and seminars at Uni Hong Kong and ANU
 Research seminars at a score of universities, 1987-
 Supervision and examination of honours, masters and doctoral dissertations

Learned Journal Editorial Advisory Boards, including Inf. Techno. & People, J. Strat. Inf. Sys., Comp. Sec. & L. Rev., J. L. & Inf. Sc., Austral. Privacy Law & Policy Rep., Surv. & Soc.
 Guest Editorships for Austral. Comp. J. (twice), Info. Technology & People (twice), and Int'l J. of Electronic Commerce, plus two edited volumes of papers
 Refereeing for many major journals and international conferences, including MIS Quarterly, J. Mngt Info. Syst., Comp. Surveys, Comp. J., J. Inf. Ec., Int'l J. Electronic
 Commerce, Prometheus, Euro. J. Inf. Sys., ICIS, ECIS

Program Chair / Editor for six national conferences 1984-1990, and the international Electronic Commerce Research & Teaching Symposium in Bled, Slovenia, 1995
 Program Committee member for many conferences, including

- 20 international e-Commerce Conferences, Bled, Slovenia, 1991-2010
- Computers, Freedom & Privacy Conferences, U.S.A., 1994, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2002
- IFIP World Computer Congress in Hamburg, 1994
- European Information Systems Conference (ECIS), 1995, 1996

Foundation Editor of the Australasian Directory of Information Systems Academics
 (1989-93), and Co-Foundation Editor of the Asia-Pacific Directory (1994-95)
 Foundation Councillor, Asia-Pacific, for the Association for Information Systems (1995-96)
 Foundation Editor of the ISWorld Country Pages and of the Australia Page (1996-2003)
 Foundation Committee-member, Australasian Conference in Information Systems (ACIS), 1991-94

Substantial contributions to university management and policy, including Departmental Headship, multiple Committees at various levels, and responsibility for the conception, development and operation of substantial departmental I.T. infrastructure, 1984-95
 Evidence to many Committees of the Australian Parliament

PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS, Etc.

 Board-Member, Electronic Frontiers Australia, 2001-2005
 Board-Member, Australian Government Public Key Authority, 1999-2000
 Director, Electronic Trading Concepts Pty Ltd, 1998-2000
 Member, then Chair, A.C.T. On-Line Services Advisory Group, 1997-99
 Board Member, Australian Information Technology Council, 1989-92
 Board Member, Federation of Aust. Scientific and Technological Societies, 1988-90
 Co-author of Information Systems Course Accreditation Requirements for:

- the Australian Computer Society, 1989
- the Australian Society of Certified Practising Accountants, 1990

Commissioned service in the Army Reserve (C.M.F.), 1969-72
 Soccer referee, 1988-2002

RESEARCH

I have undertaken research in six main areas within and adjacent to the information systems discipline:

- application software technology and its management (1970-1992)
- organisational, economic and legal aspects of Information Technology (since 1984)
This work has focussed on key strategic and policy issues arising from new technologies, identifying for executives and managers the opportunities they offer, and their impacts and implications
- electronic business (since 1988)
I was one of the first researchers to focus on the fields of eCommerce and eGovernment, with particular reference to electronic data interchange, electronic markets and electronic payments, including applications of chip-cards. I have also conducted research over an extended period into the impediments that slow and even undermine the adoption of seemingly beneficial technologies and applications
- information infrastructure (since 1990)
I have undertaken research into the strategic and policy implications of global information infrastructure, particularly the Internet. I have authored the only substantial history of the Internet in Australia. Major areas of contribution have encompassed applications within academe, ePublishing, copyright and open content
- information privacy and dataveillance (since 1972)
I have been involved in research, consultancy and advocacy in this area for nearly four decades. My publications include foundation articles on many important concepts including dataveillance, computer matching, identity, anonymity and the digital persona.
My dual concerns have been to ensure that regulatory regimes be imposed on an inherently invasive and increasingly pervasive technology, but in a manner that is neither impractical nor unduly expensive. My research has resulted in guidance for the formulation of privacy strategy, the conduct of privacy impact assessments, and the expression of privacy policy statements
- academic professional matters (since 2000)
I have conducted original research into the economics of refereed journals, open access to research publications, citation analysis, and plagiarism by academics. I have also made substantial contributions to professional ethics within the academic arena, including in relation to the AIS Code of Conduct

In all, I have published about 100 refereed papers, together with smaller numbers of research monographs and edited works. Because I play roles at the interfaces between academe and business, and between the academic and professional aspects of the IS discipline, I have also published large numbers of invited and contributed papers. Many of these have been influential, and attract citations, notwithstanding their unrefereed nature.

My publications have been primarily within the IS discipline, but also in venues that focus on specific problem-domains, and that are associated with cognate disciplines, including economics, law, and computer science and engineering.

Using Google citation-count as a proxy impact-measure, my late 2009 scores are a Google h-index of 23 and an h-count of 1,360. This confirms my position in the top 5-10 Australian-resident IS academics.

I have achieved, and sustain, this high standing despite the fact that my primary source of income during the last 14 years has been my consultancy practice, with my academic roles during that time being of a visiting nature only. During the 4 years 2006-09, I have published about 20 refereed journal articles, 10 other refereed papers, and 5 keynotes at refereed conferences.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE AND COMMITMENT

I have taught, and managed teaching and learning, in a wide variety of settings, including military instruction (1965-72), University tutoring (1973-76 and 1983-95), University lecturing (1975-76, 1983-), postgraduate seminars (1987-), and over 70 1/2-day to 3-day professional and managerial seminars (1980-). In addition, I have made many scores of shorter presentations in academic, professional, managerial and executive settings.

I place considerable pride in my ability to blend information content with entertainment, to speak to audiences on their terms rather than my own, and to challenge people to see topics in a new light.

I am at my most effective in postgraduate, professional, managerial and executive seminars, and in final year lecturing. When conducting academic teaching, I seek formal student feedback, and take the results into account in unit design and delivery. I encourage my colleagues to do likewise. I have worked in a German language environment for over four years, including two semesters of teaching and a dozen seminars.

I have conceived and developed many short seminars, and about a dozen 50-hour semester units within undergraduate and postgraduate degrees. I taught, alone or jointly, the first presentation of all but one of the ten IS units developed in the A.N.U.'s Department of Commerce during 1984-95.

While at the A.N.U., I instituted, and ensured the maintenance of, shared files of teaching materials, in both machine-readable and written form. This comprised large volumes of slides, assignments, software documentation and supplementary reading materials (which are vital in the quickly moving I.S. discipline). I succeeded in sustaining team-teaching of units. These policies ensured visibility, coordination and continuity of unit syllabi, and reduction of staff effort to that necessary to create new units and upgrade established lectures year by year.

In conjunction with Prof. Robin Stanton, then of the Department of Computer Science, I variously conceived, developed and negotiated minor and major sequences of IS units (taught jointly between two Departments in two Faculties), an undergraduate IT degree comprising multiple programs across the two Faculties, and an Honours program.

I was lead-author for the Accreditation Guidelines for IS courses of the Australian Computer Society (ACS), and the Australian Society of Certified Practising Accountants (ASCPA). I made submissions to, and appeared before, the Computing Discipline Review Committee in the early 1990s, on behalf of both the A.N.U. and the Australian Computer Society.

I have applied technology to the support of teaching, have encouraged and supported academic colleagues seeking to do the same, and have gained funding to enable further development. My own teaching has featured applications of Internet services and resources that were innovative, extensive and intensive.

My postgraduate supervision during 1984-95 was limited, due partly to the high salaries paid to 3-year graduates in the information systems discipline, especially those completing my courses at the A.N.U., but also to the policy I intentionally adopted in 1984, of building the undergraduate courses first. I have formally supervised a dozen postgraduate research dissertations, six completed at doctoral level and three currently in progress, and have informally advised many more.
